

Generosity Captured In Pali Momi Wall

By ALANA FOLEN

From the moment Kapiolani Medical Center at Pali Momi opened its doors in 1989, various companies and foundations have come forth with cumulative gifts of $1,000 or more. In appreciation of its many donors, the hospital recently unveiled its donor wall, handcrafted by local artist Jim Kastner.

"Because Pali Momi is a nonprofit hospital, we are grateful to our donors for their support over the past 20 years," said Jen Chahanovich, chief operating officer at Pali Momi. "Their generous gifts help us to provide excellent medical care and specialty services to our families close to home."

The donor wall is on display for everyone to see, as it's situated in close proximity to the main patient elevators. New donors will be recognized each year, and those who have increased their level of giving will be honored as well.

Pali Momi relies heavily on community support and donations to provide top-

"We are grateful to our donors for their support over the past 20 years. Their generous gifts help us to provide excellent medical care to our families close to home."

notch care to its many West Oahu patients. In fact, the Aiea-based hospital boasts Leeward Oahu's only cardiac catheterization unit for the detection of heart disease, established the state's first Retina Center to prevent and treat blinding retinal conditions, and was recently recognized in a U.S. News & World Report national survey for providing excellence in the healthcare field.

Go online to www.kapiolani.org/pali-momi to learn more.